

Friday, March 17

Dear Mom,

I finally received the first page of your v-mail letter yesterday, & also, one dated March second. That first page of the v-mail was so long in getting here, because you wrote over the borders, & it could not be photographed.

There isn't anything new from here. We are still in the same place, flying & going to a few classes. However, we expect to get out of here any day now, & be assigned to a squadron. We're not wasting time here, though, because we've been flying practically every day, & have plenty of hours in now.
